A Tale of the Future

Like "Anticipations of the Future," this is a book by a Southern Fire-Eater about the long-anticipated Civil War. Indeed, this author, Nathaniel Beverly Tucker, anticipated the Civil War in 1836 (to take place in 1849). Indeed, Tucker was so far ahead of his time that he actually died of old age before the South seceded and the war began.

"Please believe us; we won't exploit our nature anymore. We have seen the effect of our actions. We have seen the state of the earth in future, if we continue to exploit earth," both begged in chorus. As both of them were speaking to the monster, a strong air blew and pulled both of them back to their room.
