HOORAY FOR SNAIL! Back in 1982, Brian McConnachie, the founder of the humor magazine, American Bystander, wanted to use some of my work in his publication. I was putting the finishing touches on a piece when I was informed that the magazine had gone belly up. I was left with a very funny full-page panel and nowhere to use it.

I then adhered the rainbow panel directly to the light grey cardstock, and stamped the "sending" and then "hooray for Snail Mail" where I saw fit. Finally, I adhered the snail, with a little bit of foam tape for dimension. The bold rainbow colours contrast nicely with the white card base, and the light grey panel.
